Final Research Report

Identification
All SSHRC grant holders are required to report on what has been accomplished with the funding provided to them. Final Research Reports or Final Productivity Reports must be submitted within six months of the termination date of the grant. Final Research Reports may be used by SSHRC to promote its funded research and knowledge transfer, to enhance accountability, to demonstrate research results and outcomes of grants, to assess client satisfaction and to provide input for program evaluations.

Research Findings Summary

Summarize your research results and their general significance in one page or less (300-500 words). Use plain, non-technical language. Describe how the research evolved from the objectives set out in your original project proposal and, where possible, explain the significance to Canadians. SSHRC Public Affairs may wish to use this summary for promotional purposes; they will contact you before doing so.

The social economy in Northern Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan is strong and diverse. Co-operatives are the dominant organizational form, but not for profit associations and social enterprises are significant players as well.

Social economy organizations have built and strengthened rural and remote rural communities, and contributed important services in urban centres. Sustainable food production, consumer sponsored agriculture and alternative energy production are emerging growth areas which demonstrate a commitment to sustainable practices. Civic engagement and democratic decision-making are fundamental characteristics, empowering communities to direct social and economic initiatives in directions consistent with community needs. Traditionally marginalized communities have found inclusion through social economy organizations focused on the disability community, newcomers and others often disadvantaged in the employment market. Within Indigenous communities, the social economy takes the form of band-owned enterprises and social service delivery associations. It is playing a growing role in resource-based economic development in forestry and non-timber forest products.

Social economy as a term may be limiting, imposing economic boundaries on social relations in particular as it pertains to Indigenous communities. The "holistic" approach goes beyond social, economic and environmental. It means "life projects" where life, justice and happiness are part of the equation. The need to incorporate all aspects may be more evident in isolated and rural regions, especially those influenced by Indigenous communities.

The region studied within this project is geographically large and culturally diverse. The common hinterland experience, however, lessened the sense of difference. The research demonstrated that rural and northern development tends to be ignored; the impact of globalization and wealth concentration are more evident. The diversity of impacts requires diverse approaches which may be more likely to pursue radical options. There tends to be more focus on the local, allowing for greater flexibility and diversity. The research findings of LLL have been as much about the learnings gained regarding how to carry out, and the benefits of, community-based research as it is the knowledge gathered through the completion of 84 individual research projects over the five year time frame. We have learned that community-based research (CBR) is an ongoing process, built on long-term relationships. CBR requires community development skills and the willingness to share lives with one another. It has required a rethinking of research methods leading to democratizing and demystifying of the research activity. In the process community knowledge and community research skills have been legitimized.

The LLL project created a space for the social economy to be recognized and acknowledged. The social economy has gained credibility as a driver within the economic sector with a great deal to contribute to the transition from resource-extractive industries and one-industry towns, to new economies based on more sustainable and resilient forms of social and economic activity. Although this transition is by no means complete, LLL has deepened the interest and understanding of social economy activities and processes across the region, and built key and strategic alliances between universities, communities and community-based organizations in all three provinces.

Final Research Report

Success/Hindrane Factors

Indicate whether the following factors contributed or caused difficulties in achieving your research.

Success Factors - Indicate and rank up to 3 factors that contributed most to the success of your research.

Rank	Factor
1	Team collaboration
2	Partner involvement
3	Institutional support

List any additional factors that facilitated your research.

Governance model; administrative leadership made possible with RTS and in kind of lead institution; decentralized decisionmaking; strong research/community partner networks; experienced community-based researchers, regional/prov conferences

Hindrane Factors - Indicate and rank up to 3 factors that most hindered your research.

Rank	Factor
1	Insufficient SSHRC funding
2	Release time (i.e. employment)
3	Student recruitment

List any additional difficulties you confronted in your research.

Expectation to involve extensive network of partners led to funds spread too thin; huge geographic and diverse cultural area, insufficient travel/translation funds; excessive in-kind needed from lead institution; RTS critical for heavy admin load.

Final Research Report

Impacts
Assess - as well as you can under present circumstances - the current and/or potential impacts of the research on which you are reporting. Answer the questions below using the response scale provided.
In which one of the following areas will your research have the most impact?	Economic
Will your research have an impact on our understanding of culture (broadly understood), e.g., of literature, art, history, anthropology, cultural criticism, etc.?	Possibly
Will your research have an impact on our understanding of social issues and social development?	Definitely
Will your research have an impact on our understanding of economic development, policies or practices?	Definitely
Will your research have an impact on public policy debate?	Definitely
Will your research have an impact on teaching (e.g., development of new courses) or professional practice?	Definitely
Will your research have an impact on the development of new research methodologies?	Definitely
Will your research have an impact in other disciplines?	Definitely
Will your research have an impact on international collaboration?	Definitely
Have your research findings been disseminated to an academic audience?	Definitely
Have your research findings been disseminated to decision-makers in the public, private and not-for-profit sectors?	Definitely
Have your research findings been disseminated to the general public?	Definitely
Have your research findings for this project contributed to – or will it contribute to – enhancing accessible research infrastructure (e.g., collections of materials, Web sites, data bases, networks, etc.)?	Definitely
Please add any further comments or examples on current impacts of the research on which you are reporting.
CAPT partners with Smithsonian for $6 M bi national ecotourism initiative; Big River co-op partners with SK government for $5M business incubator; Front Step Research co-op formed; Manitoba tax credit for co-ops, multi-stakeholder co-op legislation; Nordik Institute created, community-based research made credible and visible; U of W partners with Man govt, co-op sector to create new program area

Promotional Activities

Do you or your university have, or have access to, any items or materials about your research team or your research in progress that SSHRC could use in promoting social sciences and humanities research? This could include photographs, press releases, articles in periodicals and Web site postings.

Your Comments

As we strive to provide the best possible service to our community, we count on you to let us know how we are doing. On the basis of your own experience, please select the response that best describes your satisfaction with the following aspects of services that SSHRC provides.

Support provided by SSHRC staff (i.e., technical and programs).	Unsatisfied
New SSHRC web-based form.	Unsatisfied
Easy access (e.g. SSHRC web site).	Satisfied
Response time for web forms help.	Unsatisfied

We welcome your comments and suggestions for improving our service. SSHRC staff will pass your feedback on to the various sections and will also endeavour to respond to your comments directly.

Disconnect between nature of community based research and the parameters imposed by SSHRC's form. Emphasis on books/journal articles diminishes significant outcomes of our research. Co-ops need to be added to organization type, differ from public/private. Responses to emailed questions, if received, often needed elaboration. Sometimes answers were incorrect undermining trust in answers received.
